1 Day Live Workshop ~
September 21, 1994 • Toronto, Ontario

Workshop director:
Walter P. Unger, M.D.

Space is extremely limited. Please register early.

Naturalase™ announces a one day workshop on the latest techniques in hair transplantation surgery and skin resurfacing procedures. This unique symposium features an internationally known faculty and live surgery via interactive video to the O.R. The purpose of the workshop is to demonstrate the use of Naturalase surgical laser technology in these exacting procedures. The significantly increased precision and predictability made possible by means of Naturalase systems imparts to the surgeon a remarkable degree of control unattainable by conventional hair transplantation techniques.

What makes this technology so exciting is that it provides the tools to bring these procedures into the era of exact scientific control. The newest generation of thermally optimized surgical lasers, by means of short duration, high energy pulses, has provided the key to precisely designated tissue removal. In the production of graft sites, results can now be specified and reproduced with increased accuracy from patient to patient.

In creating surgical techniques to utilize the best of modern laser technology, Naturalase surgery is more than an improvement of old procedures. It is a step into the surgery of the future.

Sure Closure™

by D. Bluford Stough, M.D.

(Hot Springs, Arkansas)

I had heard about the Sure Closure™ instruments and asked Dr. Stough to write me a letter about it. The instrument is an interoperative scalp extender. This is similar to the Star device. But, apparently, depending on who you talk to, this may be a little more effective. editor

Please find below the requested information. We recently have had an article accepted for publication in the JDS&O entitled New Devices for Scalp Reduction. In this article, we discuss the utilization of both intraoperative and prolonged scalp extension.

The prototypical device for prolonged scalp extension is Dr. Frechet's biosilastic extender which we have found not only decreases the number of scalp reduction procedures per patient, but also increases the amount of scalp excised by 25 to 50% during the second and subsequent procedure.

We have recently adopted scalp extension to an intraoperative procedure utilizing the Sure Closure™ device by Life Medical Sciences released in this country in October, 1993. We have found this device allows for 20 to 30% more scalp excision with what appears at this time to have considerably less stretchback tendency. The use of the Sure Closure™ has become almost routine with us.

In our experience, disadvantages of the Frechet extender includes a greater risk of hematoma and infection. Consequently, we seriously advise all patients to be monitored the first two weeks after insertion. Patient selection is also most important. The disadvantage of the Sure Closure™ includes the increased time involved for the procedure (30 to 60 minutes). These devices may be used in combination and may be complimentary to each other.

For us, scalp extension appears to be the most effective and practical form of tissue expansion of the scalp, making the balloon expander very limited in use or virtually obsolete, in many conditions.
